WORK ON GRAND TRUNK

BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 8—No. 170. BOSTON, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1911. Registered in U. S. Patent Office. ONE CENT.

HOME EDITION

HAYS WILL RUSH WORK ON ROAD

News of a most encouraging character in regard to the building of the Grand Trunk Railroad to Boston for which the AMERICAN has energetically fought during the last twelve months, was received today from Montreal.

President Hays, disposing of the report that the New Haven's opposition might delay the construction of the Grand Trunk's branch from Palmer, Mass., to Blackstone, Mass., declared:

"We hope to be running trains into Providence next year. The New Haven is rendering every more we make."

President Hays was quite confident that no real delay would be encountered in prosecuting the work, and, while he did not expressly state that Boston would be in touch immediately in the Southern New England plans, his statement regarding the Providence situation indicates that the Canadian corporation has the situation well in hand, and that when this is cleared steps then will be taken to bring the great traffic artery of the North and West to the metropolis of New England—Boston.

Mr. Hays's Statement.

Mr. Hays said today:

"We hope to be running trains into Providence next year. The New Haven Company is rushing every more we make. The Governor of Illinois, Lorimer, Mr. Pothier, is a French-Canadian, born in Quebec, and is taking a great interest in our project for that reason, as well as realizing the advantages of competition.

"For several years Rhode Island has been at the mercy of the New Haven railroad, which has controlled every means of transportation except private conveyances.

Boom to Trade.

"We are building from Palmer, Mass., a station on our line to the Connecticut Valley through a string of manufacturing villages, whose products we will haul the entire length of our line to Chicago and the Northwestern States, and eventually across Canada for export to China and Japan.

"There is no produce more generally everything that is wanted in the West and require practically everything in the way of agricultural products that is produced in Canada. They are a great market for hay, oats and all kinds of vegetables and fruits, and from the innumerable factories vast quantities of manufactured merchandise are shipped to Chicago, Buffalo and other points on the Grand Trunk line for distribution.

"It is a very promising proposition, and there is little difference in the hauling distance between Providence and Chicago over the Grand Trunk and over the lines through the United States."

"DIVINE RIGHT" BAER SELLING BAD EGGS?

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railroad Company, most prominent among the Coal Trust inquiry several years ago by his declaration that he said coal "by divine right," must appear September 14 to answer to a summons on a charge of selling bad eggs. The State pure food department alleges that the railroad company sells bad eggs to fifty hotels by contingents. A true case was decided upon, and the summons was issued for Mr. Baer's appearance. He has just returned from Europe.

"SHOOT" PIKE'S PEAK AT MILE A MINUTE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 8.—R. G. Green of New York and M. H. Harden of Detroit "shot Pike's Peak" on a railroad "toboggan" a greased board with cleats for it to ride on, a mile a minute run railroad. Starting from a point above Half Way House they reached Manitou, at the base of the peak, a distance of five miles, in 5 minutes 37 seconds.

BEATTIE VERDICT IS NEAR

CHESTERFIELD COUNTY COURT HOUSE, Va., Sept. 8.—The end of the trial of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., for the murder of his wife, Louise Owen Beattie, is at hand. The jury will get the case in a few hours. The young man may know his fate before evening. Only two speeches remained to be given when court convened to-day. They were those of Attorney Harry M. Smith, Jr., for the defense and Prosecutor Wendenburg for the State.

The attorneys participating in the trial said that they expected the case to go to the jury about noon. The general opinion seemed to be that the result of the trial will be an immediate verdict for acquittal or else a long-drawn-out battle, resulting in a disagreement.

Beattie himself, the coolest prisoner ever housed in a Virginia jail, professed confidence of his acquittal.

"I think they will free me," he said, "but I am at least almost positive that the best the State can secure is a disagreement."

At dawn the crowds began gathering around the little Court House, coming from all sections of the surrounding country.

Argument for Defence.

When court was called to order at 9:30 o'clock, Harry M. Smith, Jr., of counsel for the defense, supplemented the plea to the jury made yesterday by Hill Carter. He began by praising the jurors for the fair and diligent attention they had given the testimony.

"I think that everyone has agreed that whatever the verdict may be, it will be a conscientious one," he went on.

Mr. Smith made it evident that he would follow the line of argument made by his associate counsel. His effort was to get the jurors to believe that there was room for reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused.

It is an interesting fact that while the case has been under way the political influences of those working on it have changed. Commonwealth's Attorney Gordon was defeated in yesterday's primaries and will retire from office. Mr. Wendenburg, who was a candidate for the State Senate, was elected by a large majority, on the express of himself and many others, as the financial C. Astley Warwick, a near relative and able man, was supposed to be sure of re-election.

The political gossip among the throng outside finally simmered down to Mr. Smith's appeal for Beattie's life sounded through the court room. To the cause house and attracted the attention of the jury.

Mr. Smith depicted the prisoner as a capable young business man of shown ver satility and high reputation, and of good him with his enemies. Then, the chief witness, whom Mr. Smith declared was shifless and a liar.

"Under a heartless cross-examination," said Mr. Smith, "Henry Beattie stood firm in his story, and gave the impression of man he is. Can you believe the contention of the Commonwealth that a man of Beattie's type could have done such a murderly act as he did to his family? Gentlemen of the jury, I do not."

"Truthful and Honest."

"Henry Beattie is a truthful, an honest and a kindly man," continued his attorney. "He was provoked to murder. This crime was not done in anger. There is no evidence of that sort in the theory of the Commonwealth is that this deadly weapon, the pistol, which outclasses the brutality of all the clubs, was brought to Lucy and it had carried it in his brain while he kissed his victim and his old mother. And gentlemen, you are asked to believe that, as the third degree report done this man like Henry Beattie could have done this.

"It is inconceivable. You cannot believe it."

All during the argument by Mr. Smith, Henry Beattie, a handsome young man, listening keenly to every word and occasionally wiping the tears from his eyes with his cold blue eyes. If he had any emotion in him one hour of death in his heart he was the master of both.

Mr. Smith closed at 11:30 o'clock amid doubtful elements. "And we are entrusted to the benefit of the doubt," he thundered.

A human life is at stake here. As Mr. Carter said this is not a case of a few dollars between two business men, but is the life of that boy involved, but the good name of that little sister, and the good name of that little sister. All are involved in such a stated longer.

Big Wagers on Verdict.

Thousands of dollars have been wagered on the outcome of the trial in Richmond. Despite the favorable charge of Judge Watson, betting is 2 to 1 in favor of a verdict against Beattie. Odds of 10 to 1 were offered that Beattie would go free, whereas the odds on a conviction are 5 to 8. Still the betting was still principally 2 to 1 and 3 to 2 against.

It was estimated that $10,000 had been bet by the time court opened and the betting was still principally 2 to 1 and 3 to 2 against.

FOURTEEN SAVED FROM FIRE PERIL

A widow and her two children were rescued by firemen, and eleven other persons, including six children, narrowly escaped being burned to death early today during a fire which practically destroyed the two-and-one-half-story brick and wooden tenement house at Nos. 1 and 2 Chelsea court, off Chelsea street, East Boston. The blaze, besides causing a loss of $2,000, threatened several wooden dwellings in the vicinity and broke up a wake in the house next door.

Everybody had succeeded in getting out safely from the house except Mrs. Sarah Steinberg and her two children, Hyman and Jennie, who live on the first floor of No. 1. They were asleep semi-conscious from the smoke which filled their apartments and had not heard the shouts of the others as they fled from the house. Firemen smashed their way through the windows and carried the widow and her children to the street, where they were revived.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Lops, who occupy the second floor on the same side of the building, had gone to South Wareham, with their four children leaving the house in the care of two male lodgers. The lodgers were asleep when the fire was discovered and escaped to the street unassisted.

The second floor on the other side of the double tenement house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Pasquali Clarioni, their four daughters and three sons. Mrs. Clarioni was awakened by the crackling of the flames to see the fire rapidly eating its way through the kitchen toward the bedroom in which the family was sleeping. She aroused her husband and the children, who were rapidly being overcome by smoke. Hastily snatching what clothing was near at hand the members of the Clarioni family groped their way down the front stairs to the street.

The flames were seen by one of the mourners at a wake in the house facing on Chelsea street at the head of Chelsea court. He ran into the street and sounded an alarm while other bereaved friends of the deceased hurried out to assist the people out of the burning building.

The blaze started somewhere on the second floor, near the chimney, and burned out the entire upper part of the building. A twelve-year-old son of Mrs. Steinberg died less than three weeks ago and the fire has left herself and her two children in destitute circumstances, as her household effects, ruined by smoke and water, were not covered by insurance. She was cared for in the home of a neighbor. The Clarioni family also sought refuge in the home of a neighbor and were later cared for by relatives.

AMERICANS IN GRAVE PERIL

SHANGHAI, Sept. 8.—Two million Chinese are homeless in Nganhwei and Szechuen provinces and in the western part of Honanpo province as a result of the floods, which have destroyed 100,000 lives and all crops.

Chinese soldiers are marching to defend Americans and other foreigners in the district where flood refugees have united with bandits and are killing and plundering.

The Methodist mission compound at Chungtu has been fortified and foreigners are hastened there, but provisions are running short and starvation threatens them.

British and United States gunboats made short cruises up the Yang-Tse-Kiang River from here to-day and reported upon their return that the flood extends for miles on both sides of the natural river bed and that the dikes are covered or washed away.

Among the American and other foreign missionaries attached to stations in the province covered by floods and consequent outlawry and whose lives may be in danger are the following:

Joseph Beech, Middletown, Ct.; Mrs. Beech, Dixon, Ill.; George Neiman, New Britain, Ct.; Edrick Williams, Urosne, Ill.; Mrs. Williams, Fort Dodge, Ia.; James M. Yard, Nichols, Ct.; Georgia E. Day, Keosauqua, Iowa; Herb B. Smith, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Winifred L. Stout, Hurley, S. D.; Anna L. Gelfinch, Afton, Iowa.

In addition there are more than thirty-five others whose place of residence is given just as "United States" or "Canada."

There are seventy Americans in Changtu, providence of Sze-Chuen, and adjacent country.

Hundreds of thousands of Chinese families are marooned in the mountains by the floods and are without food. Native dispatch runners report cases of cannibalism among the starving natives.

HELD FOR KIDNAPING GIRL OF THIRTEEN

WORCESTER, Sept. 8.—Bernard Conto was given a hearing in court to-day on a charge of kidnaping Antoinetta Ringo, thirteen years old. Conto is thirty years old. It is alleged that Conto came from Holden last week and took the girl from her home on Penn street to Providence. He was returning with the girl to her home when he was arrested.

Mayor Fitzgerald Presents Awards to Girls Who Won in Big Swimming Contest.

The five girls who won the prizes in the AMERICAN'S swimming race in Charles River Lower Basin last Saturday, have to-day the silver cups awarded by the AMERICAN as trophies in this contest.

The cups were presented to the girls by Mayor Fitzgerald in the Mayor's office in City Hall, in the presence of a number of friends and relatives.

Before presenting the cups the Mayor gave a little talk to the girls. He expressed his pleasure that the AMERICAN had held this race, which would permanently the basin and hoped that many more events would be held there.

The presentation took place at 3 o'clock. When the girls entered the Mayor's office they found the five big cups placed in a row on one of the office tables, their silver surface contrasting brightly with the dull mahogany.

It was a pleasant experience for the girls, who were in the Mayor's office for the first time in their lives, face to face with the city's executive. They bore themselves with dignity and made a fine appearance.

Before the winners were lined up before him the Mayor said:

"The other city officials and myself are very anxious to further the use of the Charles River Basin, on which millions of dollars have been spent. I do not know of any better sport than this swimming race held by the AMERICAN in opposite this magnificent basin.

"Swimming is splendid sport for everybody. This race was a great pleasure to thousands of spectators. I am very glad that the race was held and I particularly congratulate you girls who won these prizes.

"There is an old saying about a sound mind being in a sound body. Swimming is one of the finest outdoor sports make the sound bodies that furnish the sound minds. Hopkins, runners report cases of cannibalism among the starving natives.

"In addition there are more than thirty-five others whose place of residence is given just as "United States" or "Canada."

"There are seventy Americans in Changtu, providence of Sze-Chuen, and adjacent country.

The Phillies and Rustlers will clash in the third game of the series at the South End grounds to-day and there promises to be a rousing time. The Rustlers are filled over the treatment which the Phillies handed them yesterday, and nothing but a complete rout of the Philadelphia team will satisfy Manager Tenney.

Rob Perdue will be won against the Phillies to-day, and as Rob is just about due for a win, it looks as though we could figure on a victory for the locals, but don't bank on it too strong.

Earle Moore, whom the Phillies have attempted to trade to about every team in the League without success, will be given a chance, by Acting Manager Knabe, to show if he still possesses anything. Titus will probably be back in the game for the Phillies.

REAM AND RUNAWAY BRIDE ARE FORGIVEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Norman B. Ream, steel trust man, has forgiven his son, Louis, for his runaway marriage with Ethel Pendleton, a show girl. At her hotel the happy bride to-day told a reporter that everything had been settled amicably. "They all folks have forgiven us," she declared."

URGE LONG FOR DOCK CHAIRMAN

A big delegation of prominent citizens of Boston and neighboring cities gathered in the executive chambers in the State House early today to urge Governor Foss to appoint Henry C. Long chairman of the dock board which is to expend $2,000,000 in improving Boston harbor.

Under this act passed by the 1911 Legislature the man who holds this office will get a salary of $15,000 a year. It is more than is paid the governor of Massachusetts or the Mayor of Boston. Mr. Long is a big member of the legislative act for harbor improvement.

The delegation which appeared in behalf of Mr. Long included William B. Wilkinson, Lincoln Comptt, A. Lawrence Lowell, William J. Macdonald, all directors of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, and Chester Newhall, a former director; James M. Head of the Head & Brothers, President Frederick W. Hamilton of Tufts College, William Harper, of the Harper Steamship Company, Loulin C. Smith, president of the Fruit and Produce Exchange, and Sidney L. Burr, Charles A. Wilcox and Harry Gray, members of H. George C. Marion, vice-president of the Boston Credit Men's Association, George Coates of the traffic committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Chester L. Campbell, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on transportation.

Gave Years to Work.

Henry C. Long, the Boston lawyer who is a candidate for chairmanship of the new dock board, to-day explained his candidacy to the AMERICAN. Mr. Long says:

"I have been working for years to secure the development of the port of Boston. I have given my time and my money to that end, and have never received any return. I didn't want any return except the betterment of my city.

"For many years I have been studying the facilities of other cities and the opportunities here in Boston. I have given the time and money necessary, illustrated by historic slides, for the purpose of arousing interest in the matter.

"I believe my lectures had much to do with the present state of the public mind in regard to harbor development, which resulted in the $2,000,000 bill to be passed.

"I never had any intention of being a candidate for the dock board until several weeks ago, when I found that persons in the position of commissioner were to be paid no qualifications whatever.

"The act which is now a law was to all intents and purposes the bill I prepared, and I thought the work properly one of the men who had given years of study and use all our years of efforts carried by the appointment to the dock board of men who were not in the work properly, or who might be agents of the railroad corporations.

"That is why I am a candidate. I will take the office with the salary or without it. I will withdraw if some person is found who will be better qualified for the position than myself. But I will not withdraw for any person who does not possess the necessary qualifications to do the work this board will have to do."

HOLD "MONA LISA" SUSPECTS

MARSEILLE, Sept. 8.—The newspaper Le Petit Libre says that two foreigners have been arrested in Nice. They are charged having in their possession a "Mona Lisa." The same paper protested against hasty detection, asserting that the picture was only a copy of the original, which is in the Louvre, which they were taking to Canada where they reside.

POINTS FOR AND AGAINST BEATTIE

PROSECUTION.

1—The crime was committed with the gun bought by Paul Beattie and given to Henry.

2—Henry gave different accounts of the murder; the variations making the main story seem not only improbable, but impossible.

3—In the last few months of Louise Beattie's life were unhappy.

4—Henry's relations with Beulah Binford were so questionable that he finally determined to get his wife out of the way so he could wed one of the Binford girls.

5—Henry confessed to Paul that he had done the murder.

6—Paul was told to keep his mouth shut and promised a reward.

7—Henry sent word to Beulah Binford soon after the crime warning her to keep quiet.

8—Henry telephoned to ascertain whether the police had locked Beulah.

9—The accused has shown no grief as a result of the death of his wife.

DEFENCE.

1—Henry did not receive the gun from Paul; never ordered a gun, and never saw the weapon, until he wrested it from the hands of the murderous highwayman.

2—His accounts of the crime are true. His reputation for truth and honesty are excellent.

3—Henry and his wife lived happily together.

4—The accused cared nothing for the Binford girl, and never thought of deserting his wife to live with her.

5—Henry did not confess to Paul. Paul entertained malice toward his cousin and is not to be believed on oath.

6—Paul was seen with the gun the day after he claims to have delivered it to his cousin.

7—Henry sent no threatening messages to the Binford girl; neither did he telephone to Paul.

8—Several mysterious looking strangers were seen on the turnpike just before the homicide.

9—The accused has grieved deeply for his beautiful young wife, but has been able, by virtue of his iron nerves, to suppress his emotions.

of Richmond. At least seven books were made on the verdict.

Whether Beattie shall die in the electric chair for the murder of his wife or whether he shall walk out of this court room a free man will be known not later than 6 o'clock tonight," declared Prosecutor Wendenburg in an AMERICAN reporter just before court was called to order.

"The jury will reach its conclusion within an hour," he added. "I never was more confident of anything than I am that it will find him guilty. There are only two possibilities in this case, death or acquittal, and it is going to be death. We have enmeshed him in a web of evidence that makes it impossible for any twelve men to believe anything other than that he shot his young wife to death on the Midlothian turnpike on the night of July 18, as we have charged. He stands virtually convicted of murder in the eyes of the world now and the full penalty for the crime will be exacted of him."

Bet Against Conviction.

In the public barrooms and in the other gambling resort of Richmond where there is a square hang and where bookmakers do-day were laying 8 to 5 against a conviction, even money on a hung jury and 10 to 1 against an acquittal. Young Beattie, who has made many bets himself in these places, laughed at the odds, and said he wished he could get down a fair sized wager.

Judge Watson yesterday sent an order to the Henrico jail, in Richmond City, releasing from custody Beulah Binford, and Paul Beattie, the latter, who could not that Henry got him to buy the gun and latter confessed to him.

Paul Beattie on Old Job.

Paul departed from the jail as soon as the glad news came. He said first that he was going to New York to pose for a moving picture concern which is getting up a reproduction partly real and partly faked of the trial. But later he announced that he was going back on his old job as watchman on a railroad bridge spanning the James River.

Judge Gregory began for the state by reciting the first words of Moses, and called his hearers therefrom through Genesis and Exodus to the promulgation of the Commandments of Moses, and finally to the decalogue. "Thou shalt not kill."

Some of his hearers smiled sarcastically at this, and called it foolish; but it was wiser than their knowledge. For upon the jury is a devout christian. Each morning, before breakfast, the twelve begin the day by singing hymns and reciting prayers.

The lawyers appealed likewise to their known respect for the sanctity of the marriage vow by picturing young Beattie's first life.

NEW YORK WOMEN OBJECT TO BEULAH BINFORD ON STAGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Beulah Binford went to work today. After slipping quietly into New York, the girl for her—of whom the state of Virginia alleges it "deserved to be killed" his wife, remained at a hotel until she had secured employment at the office of a moving picture concern with whom she signed a contract. She is going to pose for moving pictures which will provide a regular income. Except from her own pitiable life will be shown to guide other young girls away from the pitfalls whose wages is death. The pictures are to uplift.

With all her self-confidence gained by her new mode of life Beulah showed some shyness and hesitated before the stares of those who recognized her.

Despite the assertions of the moving picture house that the scenario will be strictly moral and the declaration of a vaudeville manager that she is in contract with her, that her turn will contain nothing offensive, New York clubwomen are up in arms against the employment of the girl upon the stage.

Women prominent in New York club life are considering a petition to Mayor Gaynor asking that the appointment of Henry Clay Beattie, jr., be kept off the stage here. They charge that his appearance would be a striking commentary upon twentieth century civilization. Some of the utterances follow:

Mrs. H. J. Wood (anywere—It is an appeal to diseased tastes.

Mrs. A. Crosby, vice-president of Women's Democratic Club—Utterly disgusting and immoral. She is not receiving me for five.

Miss Mary Coleman Gawver—A degradation of evil life.

ASKS $35,000 FROM DRUGGIST

Mrs. Clara M. Stone, formerly leading matron of Roxbury, at No. 2727 Washington street, Roxbury, has brought suit against Nathan M. Orsdahl, proprietor of the Glen road drug store, Washington street and Glen road, Jamaica Plain, for $35,000 damages on the charge that he sold to her husband atropine instead of morphine, which she alleges has caused her death.

Mrs. Stone is about twenty-five years old and a pronounced brunette. She is quite slender, she says, by the illness she suffered after taking the atropine. Mrs. Stone's story of the suit is:

"I have suffered from acute indigestion. My former physician in New Hampshire prescribed morphine tablets to relieve the pains.

"At various times I have secured morphine tablets from Mr Orsdahl without prescription.

"On April 12, last, my husband went to get some pink pills procuring some for me, which he supposed, as I did, were morphine. The next morning, as I thought I became violently ill. A doctor, who was called, ordered me to the City Hospital. He said my condition was not due to morphine.

"The hospital doctors worked over me several hours before I revived. I had to stay in the hospital two days. Then I was brought home, where I have been bed ridden for two weeks ago.

"The hospital doctors said I was suffering from atropine poisoning. My health has been undermined."

WOMEN JOIN FOOD RIOTS IN GERMANY

BRUSSELS, Sept. 8.—Food riots were reported from Ostend and other Belgian cities today as a result of the high prices demanded for the necessaries of life. "I BUTTED IN AND MAY BE GOAT," SAYS POET ACCUSED BY SINCLAIR

Kansan Disgusted With a World That Prefers Daffydils to Work of Modern Poets.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—"I don't regret a single thing I have done, although I may be the goat, if 'butting in' makes one a goat," declared Harry Kemp, the Kansas poet, when it was told him that he had been made the dupe of Mr. and Mrs. Upton Sinclair in their much-talked-about marital entanglement.

"I don't think anybody has made a mistake—in fact, the three of us know just where we stand. I know that a number of my friends are trying to explain the situation for me, from their own personal point of view, but that is not mine.

The long-haired, large-eared, lovable poet was aroused to giving out another interview, despite the fact that he is much averse to talking about his personal affairs, because some one had made public a letter which he is alleged to have written to a friend in Kansas, in which he is quoted that he realizes he has been made the goat and was caught.

"I want to repudiate every word of that," he said, "and you can't find words to deny it too strongly. If any one says that I regret my position he has either misquoted me or has misunderstood my meaning.

Might Have Said It.

"Of course, it might be possible that I said it in a confidential, send-loshing manner at the time my relations with Mrs. Sinclair became public, for I am high strung, but I can hardly believe that a friend of mine would make a confidential letter public, no matter how kind his motive may have been.

"You see, I have a whole lot of friends all over the country who have written me, asking me to tell them confidentially just how I got mixed up in this affair and just how I stand, but I have learned my little lesson and will write nothing confidential any more to friends.

"New York has been a revelation to me. People are so untrustworthy, and what's more, they don't understand anything but dollars and cents. They have no idea of sentiment, poetic feeling or anything that is not material.

"I am a dreamer, and poetry is what I would devote my entire life to, if people appreciated that good poetry doesn't have to be the poetry of dead men, just as all good paintings are not the works of men turned to clay, but being a live poet I must live, and I must either be paid for my poetry or else do something else.

Public's Taste Low.

"I have thought of the stage, but having spent several evenings at the theatres I realize what a low taste the public has, and what wretched plays one must appear in if one is seen at the successful theatres. Why, I was at a play the other evening, and if it hadn't been that I might have insulted the psychopathic ward in Bellevue—I wouldn't mind simply being arrested—I would have gotten up in the middle of that vile performance and struck me slick on the seat and harangued the audience for permitting such rubbish.

Mr. Kemp says that he has had an offer from a publisher to get his poems up in book form. "I know I can write poetry. I have always had the poetic instinct and feel in the poetic way all things in life. Most people think poets and fools are synonymous, and plenty-nine persons in a hundred after they are out of school or college never open a book of poems, but prefer 'Daffydils' to the 'Song of the Shirts.'"

Won't Worry About Future.

Asked if his financial embarrassments will make any difference in his plans regarding his future and that of Mrs. Sinclair, he doesn his thin, long-haired head rather dubiously and said:

"The future will take care of itself. I learned very young—having nothing but similarly bright to look forward to—to make the best of every passing minute in the best way I know how, and let the troubles of the future take care themselves, as they always will some way.

"People spend too much time worrying about their financial future, and in doing so lose the glint and sunshine of the passing days.

Speaking of the husband whose place he has usurped, Mr. Kemp said: "Wasn't that an amusing interview that Mr. Fuller gave out, and it certainly had Upton sized up all right. He went through those phases of diet and such rot. In fact I have myself, but I eat anything and everything now—that is, when I can get it," he laughed.

"But I am not going to say anything more—there is nothing to be gained or lost, but I am tired of discussion.

"All I want to do is to get work and live my own life in my own way. I don't care whether I 'offend society' or not, for 'society' means Jesse Grundy, and who cares a fig about that old frump in these days of individualism? I am willing to be an example and will go the limit if I can make the world a little less prudish-minded. Poet Kemp of Kansas.

Quick Relief From Stomach Troubles

Mr. R. O. Hatfield, 73 years old and a sufferer for years, is an enthusiastic friend of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey because of what it has done for him.

He writes: "I have taken Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a medicine for over two years, and it has been a great help to me. I was a sufferer from stomach trouble for years, and Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done me more good than any medicine I ever used. I am never without it in the house and I cannot speak too highly of it and what it has done for me. I am now in my seventy-third year." R. O. Hatfield, 302 S. Stricker St., Baltimore, Md.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has to its credit more than fifty years of success without a question as to its merits as a curative agent. During this time it has brought the blessings of health to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, who find in it the strength-giving properties that are so necessary to them. It quickens and strengthens the heart action, aids digestion, restores health and vigor, makes the old feel young, and keeps the young strong and vigorous. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold only in sealed bottles, never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Soldier," on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00 a large bottle. Write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N.Y., for an illustrated booklet, containing valuable information and rules for health, and doctor's advice, both sent free.

"When women begin to feel the shackles removed from them, as they are only beginning to do, the evolutionary period in which we are at present in the throes will surge on with tremendous impetus.

"Mrs. Sinclair will be one of the women of America in the vanguard of this great progressive movement for intellectual and soul freedom, and I hope to help in my small way," added the transplanted.

OUTING FOR JORDAN MARSH EMPLOYES

Athletic events in which several crack runners of the organization will participate, a concert by a military band, dancing and a magnificent fireworks display in the evening are among the features scheduled for the annual outing of the Mutual Aid Association of the Jordan Marsh Company Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., at Riverside. The committee of arrangements has left nothing undone to make the affair a memorable one, and has been assisted in its work by the officials of the Jordan Marsh Company.

INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, SOURNESS, GAS AND STOMACH-HEADACHE GO.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch Gas and Eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of Dizziness, Heartburn, Fullness, Nausea, Bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is Indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or Indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases, then you will understand why Dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or Indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for Biliousness or Constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for Indigestion or Gastritis or any other Stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of Stomach Trouble and Indigestion.

ITCHING ECZEMA ON BOTH HANDS

Treated for Months but Grew Worse. Came on Face. Physician Advised Cuticura Remedies. Began Improving after First Treatment, and Owes Cure to Cuticura Remedies.

"Eczema began on the second joint of my thumb on my left hand. Several blisters came which soon broke and water oozed from them. Then the terrible itching began, and the eczema came in blotches on both hands. Sometimes the skin would scale so break, and gave the appearance of being red, and blood came out of them. It was very bad when I consulted a physician. I was treated for several months but grew worse all the time.

"Then it came on face. I suffered more than I could describe from the itching and burning. I became nearly a weak physically. Then I consulted another physician and was treated by him for some time when he finally advised the Cuticura Remedies. I began improving after the first treatment and was cured after taking the Resolvent and using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. That was fifteen years ago, and I have never been troubled with it since.

"I owe my cure to the Cuticura Remedies and would be thankful to impart any help to others. I have just advised a lady friend who is suffering with eczema on her face and neck, to try the Cuticura Remedies. She has been treated by a physician for some time without relief." Signed Mrs. L. C. Warner, Linville, Del., Dec. 15, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin and hair, will be sent, postfree, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 13A, Boston.

ARMY AID FOR COAST FLIGHT

By ARNOLD KRUCKMAN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—It seems probable, according to the statement made by his manager, that James J. Ward will start on the coast to coast flight for the $50,000 prize offered by William Randolph Hearst from Governor's Island on Wednesday.

Final plans for Ward's start will be perfected to-day, and if it is determined that the youngest aviator in the contest will begin his flight at New York application will be made immediately to General Fred D. Grant for the use of the strip in the south west part of the island from which so many notable flights have started.

General Grant is deeply interested in all problems affecting the development of aviation and will undoubtedly confirm the starting point for an event which Mr. Hudson Maxim has called "the most wonderful thing the world has ever seen."

Has Crack Machine.

The biplane Ward will fly is designed to be the machine that will make the flight from coast to coast. There will be nothing lacking on the manufacturer's part. Curtiss telephoned to Manager Bonnell that the Ward craft is the best he has produced. The machine will be shipped to the starting point on Saturday and is expected to be in New York either on Sunday or Monday, if the start is made here.

Another Curtiss motor has been ordered which will be in Chicago within a week. Besides the other new motor, many extra cylinders and other parts have been ordered by Ward. They will be carried on a special train.

The train is to consist of a car for tools sleeping car and diner. In which will be the manager and attendant will live during the trip. There will also be a number of the early friends of the party who met Pendre to follow the flight for short intervals from point to point.

Control Committee Named.

One baggage car will be used for fuel, water and the extra plane and motor parts, and another will be equipped as a work shop. In this car the mechanicians will do much of the necessary repair work while the train is rolling over the country in pursuit of the aviator.

The national committee, which will have general control of the flight, control for the Hearst prize, was completed by the appointment of the members who will represent Los Angeles and San Francisco. The two men who will decide all points of dispute and will supervise all matters connected with the competition of the respective involved, represent the leading business, professional and scientific interests in the country.

These men are working in cooperation with R. F. Youkem, chairman of the St. Louis and San Francisco lines, and Hudson Maxim, the foremost explosive expert in America, who represent New York city; Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston and Thomas W. Lawson, noted financier and sportsman, who represent Boston, and PROGRESS!

MYRA A. BEMIS IS BRIDE AGAIN

William A. Bushnell of Floral City, Fla., is on his honeymoon in Boston to-day with his fourth wife, who was Mrs. Myra A. Bemis, owner of the "farm of mystery" at Barre, which was last brought into public notice by the death of a farm hand there about six months ago.

The wedding of the woman of fifty-three to the Florida man of sixty-seven took place on the Bemis farm, the only witnesses being a hired man and the housekeeper. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. B. Blanchard, of Barre, a retired Methodist minister, who is now manager of the local telephone exchange. This is the second marriage of the present Mrs. Bushnell.

The bride has been in public prominence several times by reason of the mysterious deaths that have taken place at her farm in Barre. Early last month an investigation into the death of Frank Cooley, a farm hand who died from poison, again brought attention to the "farm of mystery." Mrs. Bemis declared the man confessed to drinking the poison and the inquiry was finally dropped.

There was also an investigation when John Hammond died November 27, 1905, a few days after Mrs. Bemis had withdrawn from a Ware savings bank $1,000 of his money on an order signed by him. She also had an order signed by Hammond for $500 in an Amherst bank. An investigation started by his relatives resulted in the exhuming of the body and an examination of the organs by Professor Whitney of the Harvard Medical School.

Professor Whitney made his report to the District Attorney in February, 1903, and the investigation was renewed, resulting. May 13, in the arrest of Mrs. Bemis on the charge of the murder of Hammond. Arraigned, she pleaded not guilty, and was held for the Grand Jury. The Grand Jury hearing began at Worcester May 16, and three days later the jury found no bill. The government tried to show that Hammond had died of morphine poisoning, but did not succeed in identifying Mrs. Bemis.

Members of Hammond's family brought a civil suit against Mrs. Bemis to recover the property he had left her. The suit was tried in the Superior Court at Worcester in March, 1907, and resulted in a verdict for Mrs. Bemis.

On two other occasions Mrs. Bemis has come into public notice—once in 1892 for burning on the farm a two-year-old child who died in her house and failing to notify the authorities, and again in 1902, when she shot and wounded a man at her farm. The man recovered, and Mrs. Bemis, tried for the offence, pleaded self-defense, and was acquitted.

BREATH TEST IF WOMAN WINS

HUNNEWELL, Kan., Sept. 8.—All the men of this town who patronize "blind-tigers" or "speak-easies" may as well make up their minds to take the pledge.

Mayor Ella Wilson is going to run the steam roller over the five stubborn men in the City Council who have for months blocked her efforts to fill the important municipal offices with women.

Mrs. Mayor Wilson has just returned from a conference with Governor Stubbs, who has designated C. W. Trickett, one of his political lieutenants, to aid the only woman mayor in the United States in her efforts to untangle the kinks the men of the City Council of Hunnewell have put in the municipal rope.

Now there'll be something doing in Hunnewell.

Since Mrs. Wilson's election last Spring the councilmen have steadily refused either to confirm her appointments or meet her to transact business, with the result that it has been impossible to make a tax levy.

"I'll be too late for the tax levy," said Mrs. Wilson, "but we'll get along without it. A sinful appeal women who will serve without pay to the offices of marshal, clerk, treasurer and commissioner of streets. I am confident that Hunnewell's affairs will be straightened out now. In spite of the councilmen.

"A woman marshal could do more than any man to root out 'blind tigers.' Women get used to smelling their husband's breaths. I shall place my confidence in a woman marshal.

"Further, I mean to say that mandamus writs might be brought to compel the councilmen either to transact the business of their offices or get out, neither Mayor Wilson nor Mr. Trickett would discuss what plan of action will be taken.

Mrs. Wilson is a fair-haired, shoe-eyed, stocky-built woman of forty-five, and is a typical country town mother. She is pleased to talk to, and, in spite of her many duties as Mayor, is taking lessons on the piano and is "doing fine." She also is a good cook.

Itching Skin

Eczema and similar skin diseases rarely cure themselves, but grow worse from week to week until the sufferer is nearly driven mad with intense irritation. Don't waste time taking internal medicines. Get a 10c box of Cadum, the new medical compound, and apply it immediately. The itching will stop at once, and a great improvement will be noticed over night. People who have itched and scratched for years find sleep and rest soon after Cadum is applied. Cadum is also for pimples, rash, blotches, ulcers, eruptions, scaly skin, chafing, piles, etc.

SEEK REASON FOR GIRL'S SUICIDE

SAUGUS, Sept. 8.—Mystery surrounds the reason for the suicide of Miss Florence B. Rowe, the Wakefield High School teacher who took carbolic acid. As far as can be learned, the young woman had no love affair. Her sister, Mrs. Grace E. Penny, with whom she lived at No. 6 Howard street, is unable to assign any cause for the act.

"I always was led to believe that she was very happy," said Mrs. Penny. She did not care a great deal for the company of men, and, in fact, the only man whom she cared for, I believe, was husband. She was a girl of sterling character and took great interest in Sunday school work. She always took an active part in social affairs in Wakefield and also in Saugus, and had a wide acquaintance among the young people of both towns.

Telling of the discovery that her sister had attempted suicide, Mrs. Penny said:

"I was awakened about 2 o'clock in the morning and found my sister unable to leave her room. Hurrying to her room, I noticed the strong odor of carbolic acid. My sister denied that she had swallowed any carbolic acid, declaring she had only taken medicine, and then fell in a swoon on the floor.

"I immediately called up Dr. R. C. Richmond of Wakefield on the telephone who arrived at the house in a half hour's time. Although he worked over my sister for more than two hours, he was unable to revive her and she expired.

Miss Rowe attended the Saugus Methodist Church, and spent her spare time in missionary work. She was also a very accomplished musician, and took part in entertainments of a high school grade. She graduated from the Salem Normal School, and for a time after taught school in Bridgeport, Ct. Her father died six months ago. She was twenty-seven years old. She became a teacher at the Wakefield High School last year, and she planned to return to school the day she took her life.

WOW! HERE'S A DIAPHEROMERA

One of the strangest looking bugs that has been seen in Boston and which it is hard to believe is actually a bug, has been captured by William H. Mosher of No. 17 Western avenue, Cliftondale. The insect, if it may be called one, resembles a piece of dried silk, or a bit of broken grape vine, with a few branches shooting off in natural style for the sake of finish and is about six inches long.

Mosher calls it an "aeroplane" bug, but the wise ones who claim to know, say it is a walking stick, or in the words of the dictionary, the "diapheromera femorata," or American stick insect.

It is about six inches long, has six legs, and two "feelers" and it would be very difficult to distinguish it from a twig, when seen or any plant or on the ground.

"I found the 'aeroplane' bug on a morning glory vine," said Mosher to an AMERICAN reporter. "I thought it was only a miniature scale but loose on land, stick at first and started to crawl it off, taking away.

GABY TO DAZZLE SOCIETY GIRLS WITH 60 GOWNS IN OUTDOOR PLAY

PARIS, Sept. 8.—Next York will hardly see Gaby Deslys in the same gown twice. On her own word, when she leaves us for La Lorraine Saturday she will take with her exactly sixty changes of frocks, with sixty sets of accessories.

Mlle. Gaby, delineating over with enthusiasm at the prospects of her first visit to the United States, said:

"I am taking with me sixty frocks, sixty pairs of shoes and slippers, sixty belts of stockings, and sixty dainty accessories of necklace. I am also taking sixty dresses like one picture.

"My object," she continued, "is to conquer New York if we are taken. But I want this understood at the outset. Should a manager try to hold me down to any advertise me I will repudiate my contract and return to Paris. I would rather live out of the stage than Queen of Burlesque. My home is Paris, which is as long as myself, comes from South Africa, and my father is Portugal. I belong to a Republican country and am not dependent on kings for success. I have seen Paris and London and am fully prepared to see New York when it is difficult. Then I shall capture Berlin and Vienna and the capitals of the world will be complete.

"I have already had a foretaste of the reception that awaits me in America," she said proudly. "An automobile came here recently from New York and offered to give me the finest automobile in the country as a present, if I would agree to ride in it during my stay. I accepted the offer and consequently the car will meet me at the dock. The car will be the finest and cost of arms and the chauffeur and footman will match the car."

Mlle. Gaby thinks she will miss Paris, but she realizes that in case she should dislike America, her stay will be short, as agreement to the stupendous salary she is to receive.

WORLD NEW TO LIFE PRISONERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—E. J. Fogarty, warden of the State prison, tells of an automobile ride of ten miles he gave to four inmates, whose escape term of imprisonment thus far has been 105 years. All are "lifers." The ride was from Michigan City to Laporte, where two of the prisoners saw for the first time trolley cars, automobiles and many other evidences of modern achievements hidden from them by the prison walls. The warden said, that two of them silently cried.

EX-JUSTICE MOODY REGAINING HEALTH

HAVERHILL, Sept. 8.—Ex-Justice William H. Moody, who retired from the Federal Supreme Court because of illness, is much better and expects to recover. At one time his condition was considered critical. He is able to see his friends considerably without assistance. For many months his circumstances have been serious that he could not move without assistance.

PILGRIMS DISCUSSED TRIP TO DALLAS

The report of the treasurer at a dinner of the Virginia Publicity Association showed that $20,000 was spent on the entertainment of the guests to the conventions in Boston last month. The report of the "On to Dallas" committee was read and the history of the trip down to the last detail has been made out.

Of the score of five to nine candidates for the offices of the society and to report on these names at the meeting on October 9 are: Edward P. Thomas, president; Wm. G. Bell, A. J. Preckett, J. W. Humphrey, W. W. Anderson and George Prosch. George W. Coleman, the president of the society and also presiding officer of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, presided and read the report of the board of directors.

WASHINGTON SPRANG FROM "CONQUEROR"

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8.—George Washington was directly descended from William the Conqueror, James W. Lee, pastor of St. John's Southern Methodist Church, who has returned from Europe, has collected data about the great American which he declares is not in the possession of any historian. Dr. Lee says he has established the ancestry of George Washington back to William the Conqueror. His facts, the clergyman says, are absolutely new and authentic.

WOW! HERE'S A DIAPHEROMERA

One of the strangest looking bugs that has been seen in Boston and which it is hard to believe is actually a bug, has been captured by William B. Meader of No. 37 Western avenue, Cliftondale. The insect, if it may be called one, resembles a piece of dried stick, or a bit of broken grape vine with a few branches shooting off in natural style for the sake of balance and is about six inches long.

Meader calls it an "aeroplane" bug, but the wise ones now claim to know, say it is a walking stick, or in the words of the dictionary, the "diapheromera femorata, or American stick insect."

It is about six inches long, has six legs, and two "feelers" and it would be very difficult to distinguish it from a twig, when seen on any plant or on the ground.

"I found the 'aeroplane' bug on a morning glory vine," said Meader to an AMERICAN reporter. "I thought it was a piece of stick at first and started to break it off, taking it home with me, when to my surprise, I saw it stretch out its legs and begin to run very fast. It looked like the walking sensation of a creeping stick and started to break it off, taking away.

GABY TO DAZZLE SOCIETY GIRLS WITH 60 GOWNS IN OUTDOOR PLAY

PARIS, Sept. 8.—New York will hardly see Gaby Deslys in the same gown twice. In fact, not one, need, there be seen by Lorraine Saturday she will take with her exactly sixty changes of frocks, with sixty sets of accessories.

Mlle. Gaby, returning once with enthusiasm at the prospects of her first visit to the United States, said:

"I am taking with me sixty frocks, sixty pairs of shoes, sixty pairs of gloves, sixty pairs of stockings, also all my pearls, including my necklace. I am also taking sixty dressing case articles.

"My dears," she continued, "is to conquer New York by my talent. But I want this understood at once—that Gaby Deslys is manager one King Manuel's name to advertise me. I only want to be myself and return to Paris. I would rather be queen of the stage than Queen of Portugal. My pearl necklace was given me by myself, comes from South America, not from Portugal. I belong to a Republican country and am not dependent on kings for success. I have been in Paris and London and am fairly renowned in six New York, which is more difficult. Then I will conquer Berlin and Vienna and my conquest of the world will be complete.

"I have already had a foretaste of the reception that awaits me in America," she said proudly. "An automobile man came here recently from New York and offered to give me the finest automobile in the country as a present, if I would agree to ride in it during my stay. I accepted the offer and consequently the car will meet me at the docks. The car has diamond crest and coat-of-arms and the chauffeur and footman will wear my livery.

Mlle. Gaby thinks she will miss Paris, but she presents that to me she should dislike America, but she will be made forgetful by the unspeakably large salary she is to receive.

WORLD NEW TO LIFE PRISONERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—E. J. Fogarty, warden of the state prison, tells of an automobile ride of ten miles he gave to four inmates, whose aggregate term of imprisonment thus far has been 105 years. All are "lifers." The ride was from Michigan City to Laporte, where two of the prisoners saw for the first time trolley cars, automobiles and many other evidences of modern achievements which are now in use outside prison walls. So great was the surprise to the prisoners, the warden said, that two of them utterly collapsed.

EX-JUSTICE MOODY REGAINING HEALTH

HAVERHILL, Sept. 8.—Ex-Justice William H. Moody, who retired from the bench of the Supreme Court because of illness, is much better and expects to recover. At one time his condition was considered critical. He is able to use his limbs considerably without assistance. For many months of rheumatism and been so serious that he could not move without assistance.

PILGRIMS DISCUSSED TRIP TO DALLAS

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 8.—The most pretentious outdoor play Newport ever attempted will be "Pygmalion and Galatea," which will be presented this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the lawn of George Gordon King's estate, the performance announced for last week having been postponed till to-day on account of rain.

The title rôle will be played by Professor Thomas Crosby of Brown University and the charming Lillian E. Maiser, with her beautiful enunciation, noticed especially when in pristine innocence she says to Pygmalion: "And am I the most beautiful woman in the world?"

The final touches were put on the production at a rehearsal yesterday afternoon, held on the King lawn, where a Greek theater had been erected with statues of Aristotle, Demosthenes and Sophocles.

The Dryads, who will appear in Greek robes, are a number of the prettiest girls in Newport. They are the Misses Dorothy McKay, Mary McKay, Marguerite Mason, Adele Bull, Alice Beers, Jeannette Hilton, Nesbitt Wilmot, Gertrude Wilmot, Mary Richardson and Hester Richardson.

Those and the other girls are under the direction of Miss Virginia Tanner of Boston.

WASHINGTON SPRANG FROM "CONQUEROR"

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 8.—George Washington was directly descended from William the Conqueror, James W. Lee, pastor of St. John's Southern Methodist church, who has returned from Europe, has collected data about the great American which he declares is not in the possession of any historian. Dr. Lee says he has established the ancestry of George Washington back to William the Conqueror. His facts, the clergyman says, are absolutely new and authentic.

ASTOR HAS LICENSE, BUT CONTINUES HIS HUNT FOR MINISTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Colonel John Jacob Astor, it became known today, carries in his pocket a license to marry Miss Madeleine T. Force. Meanwhile, the search for a minister to marry them is continued by his agents. He obtained the document in Newport two weeks ago. When he was in search of securing the services of a Rhode Island clergyman to marry him. A city official of Newport, with the proper authority, met Colonel Astor and Miss Force. After the usual formalities were disposed of the license was issued.

The Rhode Island law passed two years ago that a woman not resident must apply in person for a license at least five days before the wedding ceremony can be performed, was thus complied with. The license is still in force. That it is planned to use it soon is evident from the fact that Miss Force's trousseau has been completed under rush orders.

Tries on Bridal Gown.

Miss Force was an extremely busy woman. In a taxicab she started on a tour of the shops. She visited a milliner in Fifth avenue, where she remained half an hour. Then she re-entered the taxicab and hastened to the modiste who has kept the shop going night and day on Miss Force's trousseau. Here she remained one and a half hours, having several magnificent gowns fitted and giving directions as to some slight alterations and to the manner of the finishing touches.

Finally Miss Force visited a florist and bought a bouquet of American Beauty roses. It was nearly dinner time when she reached home. Colonel Astor joined her almost immediately.

No better proof of the Colonel's devotion to his fiancee could have been given than his almost constant attendance on her. Colonel Astor called at the Force home several times in the course of the day, his first visit being at 9 o'clock in the morning, before most society lords are out of bed.

The Colonel looked at Miss Force wistfully and repeatedly when she started on her shopping expedition, as if he could not bear to have her out of his sight. It looked as if Colonel Astor wanted to accompany her, and was but prevented to do so. Miss Force showed him back into the house.

When the trousseau arrived and was piled up in the front steps by three men there was a visible stir in the house. Miss Force rushed up to her bondoir and submitted the gowns to a critical examination.

She tried several of them on and then came down beaming with smiles to report the result to Colonel Astor, who seemed as pleased as a boy. All this took nearly an hour.

Then Miss Force came out with Colonel Astor, the two got into a touring car and took a spin through Central Park.

Miss Katherine Force, sister of the bride-elect, took a train at the Grand Central depot for Connecticut. Some conclusions immediately were circulated that she was going to others. The bargain with the Connecticut parson reported to be willing to perform the marriage ceremony. But Miss Force has been visiting friends at Fairfield, Ct., and it is not unlikely that this place was her destination.

Yacht Ready for Cruise.

The Fifth avenue concern that executed the order kept its employes at work long after normal closing-up time to complete it. It was packed in six big boxes, and the consignment included hats as well as gowns. Two men of the firm's auto delivery staff were kept on duty to rush the trousseau to the Force home.

Following the delivery of the trousseau Colonel Astor dispatched a message to No. 3 station of the New York Yacht Club at Eighty-first street and North River, where his steam yacht Nona is anchored. It was addressed to Captain Robinson.

Apparently in the absence of a reply from Captain Robinson, who was ashore, a second message was sent by Colonel Astor and megaphoned to the yacht. The megaphone hooped out these instructions:

"Have ship ready to steam early tomorrow."

Then a coal barge drew alongside and Nona and the coal began coaling. Big tugs in much larger quantities coal, therefore. As soon as Colonel Astor's first message was delivered to the yacht her crew began cleaning ship.

Colonel Astor, on leaving the Force home, was asked about the date of the wedding.

"Pshaw, pshaw," he said. "Nothing decided."

Then about the trousseau which was delivered?

"Really, you look tired after your day's work," said Colonel Astor replied haughtily to the reporter, and departed.

Colonel Astor and his fiancee dined at the Plaza.

William H. Force, father of the bride-to-be, had an encounter with a photographer who he word out for the morning sculs. He started off with the photographer following him on the start for a good picture. Mr. Force noticed the photographer's manoeuvres, turned around, and made a gesture indicating that he would not be photographed. The young man continued to race on him, but stopped when Mr. Force raised his cane and rushed at him. The photographer fled, with Mr. Force pursuing, shaking his cane and declaring loudly that he would have him arrested.

The photographer had no cause in keeping ahead of the irate Mr. Force. Suddenly he turned, halted an instant, got a good snapshot of his man, raised cane and all, and was off.

BACKS HUSBAND IN LOVE SUIT

Mrs. Perley B. Littlefield of Bow street, Arlington, whose husband has been sued by Frederick F. Sanders, a waiter at a Boston hotel, for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections, declared today that she would stand by him to the last.

Mrs. Littlefield, who is prominent in Arlington and Somerville society, declares her husband first became acquainted with Mrs. Sanders when the latter family lived on Bristol road, Somerville, behind the lumber yard of the Littlefield Lumber Company. The office Mr. Littlefield occupied was in a direct line with the windows of the Sanders home, Mrs. Littlefield declares, and the ardent glances that Anne exchanged soon led to an acquaintance.

Mrs. Littlefield invited Mrs. Sanders to dinner at her home, she says, but all tact and diplomacy disappeared when she objected to Mrs. Sanders calling her husband "Pearl." Mrs. Littlefield says she remarked that her husband's name was Perley and that he did not answer to any such ladylike nickname, because he was not a mollycoddle, let a man—that is," added Mrs. Littlefield, "a man before he was a—"

Sanders, who has filed a suit for $15,000 in the East Cambridge court, declared today that his wife's head had been turned by valuable presents, auto rides and dinners at Boston hotels. He declared that soon after forming her acquaintance with Littlefield his wife became indifferent to him and his three children and that he took up a residence elsewhere.

WHY NOT HAVE STRONG NERVES?

Nervous Debility Is Preventable and Curable as This Ohio Case Proves.

Mrs. G. E. Nott, of No. 504 Oak street, Elmwood Place, Ohio, was led to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People by her husband after being in a nervous and run-down condition for over two years. She says:

"It was quite a good while before I was aware that I was suffering from nervous debility for I have always had a strong constitution. Through worry and loss of sleep due to the sickness of my children, I began to notice that I was getting nervous and was always tired. I got so that I would fly to pieces over any excitement and could not bear any noise, even that made by the children in playing. I had constant headaches back of my eyes and quite often was dizzy. My hands and feet were always cold and neither friction nor heat would warm them. I had no appetite and could not go upstairs without stopping to rest.

"I was complaining for over two years and often called in the doctor but he didn't help me. My husband had taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People some years before and was constantly urging me to try them. Finally to please him I consented to give the pills a trial. Before I had taken many boxes I felt better and then was only too glad to continue using them. I soon noticed that I could go upstairs without stopping for breath and that my hands and feet were warm. When my friends would ask me what I was taking I never took a chance to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The pills restored my health and I wonder how any one suffering from a blood or nervous disease, can neglect to take them. I hope my experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may induce others to give them a trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are useful in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomoter ataxia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

10,000 BABIES FOR PASADENA

PASADENA Cal., Sept. 8.—It has gone all over the country that many wealthy men and their wives here, who are childless, are yearning to adopt babies who thus would be born again, each with a golden spoon in its mouth.

The consequence is that the Humane Society has received letters offering about 10,000 infants for adoption. From one institution, a Milwaukee, Wis., orphanage, comes an offer to send on 200 "or more" babies if it is certain that good homes will be found for them here.

As if in answer to these letters, as if to prove that Pasadena is the most helpful, altruistic place on earth, the members of the men's Sunday school class of the rich and fashionable Lake Avenue Episcopal Church took the "Save the Other Fellow" pledge. They promised sacredly:

Not to patronize stores that are open Sunday.

Not to shop after 6 p. m. Saturday.

Not to ride on street cars Sunday.

Not to get angry at hello girls no matter how bad the telephone service.

Not to require the butcher, baker or grocer to deliver his wares more than once a day. And to do Christmas shopping a month and a half before Christmas.

EACH SIDE CLAIMS VICTORY IN MAINE PROHIBITION FIGHT

PORTLAND, Sept. 8.—All that the unbiassed leaders in Maine—and they are few in number—can say to-day about the vote they think the outcome will be on Monday, when the voters of the State cast their ballots in the special election on the enactment of constitutional prohibition, is that the issue is in doubt. Those who are aligned up with the Pros and Antis are claiming the victory for their side.

"We will win by from 10,000 to 20,000 majority," declare both. There are others who are more conservative and one canvass made by a prohibition newspaper indicates that prohibition might win by a thirty small majority—from 1,500 to 2,000 votes.

The smallness of this claim compared to the figures of the last vote, seventeen years ago when the prohibitory amendment was adopted by the constitution as taken by the Antis as a big concession and as proof positive that repeal is going to get the victory on Monday.

Antis Are Confident.

They laid the publication of the canvass as an admission by the Pros that things do not look as bright for prohibition to-day as they did a month or two ago. That there has been a remarkable change cannot be denied. Any one who visited Maine several weeks ago would have pronounced it a sure thing for prohibition. To-day it looks almost as rosy for the Anti-Prohibitionists.

Both boasts are symptoms of sentiment fatoring a repeal of the constitutional amendment were few and far between. Apparently the voters and either not made up their minds or else were loth to tell even their friends how they felt. Many say that nobody suspected how the wind was blowing.

The change has been great, and it is this that makes up one of the remarkable features of the fight for and against prohibition. To-day everything, one hears there appears on every hand this "yes" sentiment, which is explained as proof positive of surprising and overwhelming majorities against prohibition in the cities, towns and the rural districts.

Balance of Power.

No one doubts that the cities and larger towns generally will be found in the anti column when the returns are all in and the polling officials have cast up their figures Monday night. It is upon the vote which holds what might be called the undecided element. This vote consists largely of the citizens of the vote in the "regular" cities. Therefore it is upon these cities in the present redoubt campaigning. Several of these outstanding men have left Portland to influence the voters in the country districts. The press have hammered and rehammered with loads of speakers, and hurled them with loads of literature. The antis have contented themselves with a quiet, but unceasing broadside, hoping to "make the farmers see light" by way of bulletins with scare headings and big type, with booklets and every other sort of printing that the job printers can turn out.

Usually this rural vote has been prohibition solid to the backbone. It is on this vote that the prohibition leaders are banking to reaffirm the constitutional prohibitory amendment next Monday. But it is also on this vote that the "wets" are relying to make good their prediction of a landslide for repeal.

Farmers Are Divided.

Just how the farmers feel about the matter isn't at all clear. The Pros say the country sections are still dyed-in-the-wool prohibitionists through and through. The Antis, on the other hand, claim to have authentic information that in many rural districts sentiment has switched over until these will give small majorities for taking the prohibitory amendment out of the constitution.

Canvasses of the small towns and country communities would seem to prove that the cause of prohibition is far less firm than was evidence early in the campaign. Agents of the antis and scores of traveling salesmen have reported that the farmers appear to be divided. Every county according to similar reports has developed a doubtful element in opposition to constitutional prohibition.

The Maine voter has never been subject to fits of enthusiasm. With most of the voters voting comes as a pretty cold blooded proposition. They make up their own minds and it is now thought they change them little. This is particularly true of the rural districts. The local self government in the cities had this trait in mind when they refused to follow the lead of the rural other side, and combined their efforts chiefly to sending out tons of literature made up of telling statements over the signatures of leading citizens of this State and the nation.

Big Force of Speakers.

The prohibition speakers—it is estimated that there are 650 of them all over the State—are fast as busy to-day as ever. They have fared rather slim crowds as a rule, not because they were unpopular or unmagnetic, but simply because most of the voters had already decided the case for themselves. There are others who talk as if they resented this outside interference.

By Sunday every section of Maine will have been covered by the speakers and bushels of literature. The last speakers will have their say on Sunday and the last pamphlets are nearly all in the hands of the two sides today and tomorrow. That will close the active campaigning, through the newspapers of which there are only five dailies out against the prohibitory clause, will keep hammering away until the day of the election.

It is evident no matter which way goes in Maine, that the fighting is bound even to bitterness all over the State for the reason the coming of next Tuesday will bring relief. There are attacks and counter attacks. The row style the other side "Bunkers" and the antis are "Rum rodders" in classifying their opponents.

Maine never had a fight like this before and the prohibition forces of the world have had to wage an important warfare. They realize that the pro-vine that has come to them through Maine after a quarter century of constitutional prohibition and for nearly sixty years by statutory and constitutional prohibition will be lost if Maine is allowed to swing away into the ranks of the "wets." The realize, further, that repeal will mean liberal option and the coming of the open saloon in the cities chiefly. It would be a knockout blow to anti-saloon and prohibitionists have the courage and the wherewithal to keep fighting. It will be a pretty serious thing for them if the antis do win out.

Because of this, the prohibition forces have been putting up a magnificent fight. There has been nothing like it in the history of prohibition. Women have organized together, and even the children are fighting for the cause. Boys and girls, women and all, many children fighting for prohibition in Maine to-day.

HUNTS WIFE AND HIS LITTLE GIRL

Detectives will search this country and Europe, if necessary, to find Mrs. Rosalie Van Pragg Sawyer and her four-year-old daughter Rosalie, whom the girl's father, Harry S. Sawyer of Boston and Salem, charges was taken away from Massachusetts in defiance of an arrangement with the Probate Court.

By this arrangement the child is allowed to be separated from her husband a few hours each week, but was forbidden to leave the country. Sawyer charges that she was going to take the child to Europe and that it was useless to look for her. From Paris, also all parts of the two is lost and the police of Boston, where the younger Mrs. Sawyer lived recently, and the authorities in New York, have been notified, have failed to find a trace.

Mrs. Sawyer, the grandmother, declares the case was a ruse to discourage her and they are not searching for the little girl, whom they both think, the mother intends to hide for the night. Nevertheless, both the father and grandmother declare they will leave detectives go to Europe around the world if necessary to get the child back.

Six years ago, while manager for E. S. Willard, the English actor, Sawyer met and fell in love with Rosalie Van Pragg, a beautiful woman of twenty-three, who was Willard's secretary. The courtship took place after a six weeks' courtship and the young couple came to Boston to live.

Two years of domestic life was enough for young Mrs. Sawyer and she went to New York, where she was employed for a while in the office of Charles Frohman. A Chicago year ago she entertained and secure a divorce but failed.

Last January the Probate Court in Salem, the grandmother, Mrs. Sarah D. Sawyer, was appointed the guardian of Rosalie, but the child's mother, who was living in Boston at the time, was given permission to take the child away with her for a period of a year.

OUTPUT OF COTTON SHOWS NEW RECORD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The Census Bureau to-day issued its first cotton ginning report for the season. It shows the quantity turned out to September 1 last at 771,649 running bales, counting round as half bales, the greatest on record, against 1,191,909 bales last year, 738,242 in 1910, 462,228 in 1908, 209,278 in 1907, 467,553 in 1906 and 476,655 bales in 1905, the previous high record.

WIFE DENIES POISON PLOT

BAIRE, Vt., Sept. 8.—Without a friend or means to help her, Mrs. Vera Smith, the twenty-one year old wife of Clarence E. Smith is in Montpelier jail to-day because she cannot raise $2,500 bail to free her and give her a chance to fight the charges of poisoning her young husband whom she is trying to divorce.

Mrs. Smith made a statement to the officers, to-day in her own defence.

"I was at the home of relatives in Barre when my husband was sick," she said. "After I heard Sunday of his ill ness I wanted to go to see him, but I was not allowed to do so. I forgot all about my divorce suit against him. I did not know what the matter was until I persuaded my uncle, Clarence Moulton, to go there.

Wife Has Made Friends.

"I moved all of my household goods away from my husband's farm early last week, about the time I sued him for divorce, and I haven't been back there since."

Mrs. Smith has made many friends since her arrest and they are trying to raise the $2,500 bail to set her free. She has made a favorable impression here. She has a good reputation. She was born of Vera Tandam, whose late father and mother and sisters live. Her mother died when she was young and the eldest child was later a victim of tuberculosis, leaving her to care for the large family until she was eighteen. It was to escape this that she married Smith.

Smith started at the home of Elmer Wright, a neighbor, last week. He left home with another man Saturday night for dinner. On the table was a loaf of bread, pie and tomato sauce. He dipped some of the bread in the sauce and ate it. On the way back to the town farm he became very ill. Fearing that he had been poisoned he telephoned to Dr. H. P. Goad rich of Barre.

Pie Strangely Missing.

Dr. Goodrich saved Smith's life and discovered that he actually had been poisoned with paris green. Dr. Goodrich saved the remnants of the bread and tomato sauce and turned them over to the postoffice authorities. The pie was strangely missing.

State's Attorney J. Ward Carver and Deputy Sheriff H. I. Stanton heard Smith's story in the trouble with his wife and with other evidence, which they would not make public here, have both arrested.

The case will be presented to the Grand Jury Tuesday. State's Attorney Carver said to-day he believed he had sufficient evidence now.

ZURICH GETS CONVENTION

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Zurich, Switzerland has been selected for the holding of the convention of the world's seventh Sunday school convention in 1913.

CITY SUES 'L' ON TUNNEL RENT

A dispute between the Boston Elevated and the city of Boston over the rental the former shall pay for the use of the Washington street tunnel will be settled in the courts. Corporation Counsel Babson has ordered suit for $33,068.80.

According to the account filed the city has received from the Elevated road for rental of the tunnel from November 30, 1908, to June 30, 1911, $820,925, but the city claims it should have received $853,-264 according to the figures of the Boston Transit Commission. The interest on the difference of $32,341 brings the total to $35,624.69.

Under the statute the rental is based on 4½ per cent. of the cost of the tunnel and an additional ½ per cent. on the interest on the debt incurred by the city in the construction of the tunnel. It is understood the Elevated road and the Transit Commission differ in regard to the cost and interest charges. It is understood that the road claims the Transit Commission figured in the additional cost connected with the construction of the tunnel the interest of 4 per cent. paid on the bond issue, when more or less of the bonds were in banks drawing 2 per cent. interest. Hence the company holds that credit should be given for that interest and the amount of the same deducted from the total on which the charge of 5½ per cent was based.

GRAVEYARD BALL SHOCKS TOWN

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 8.—Dancing over the graves of your ancestors to the fatal thumpe of music coming from instruments and to the music of an orchestra seated on tombstones, the scene of a Big Pool, a town west here, got an exciting lull in a cemetery there last evening.

It shocked are the staid inhabitants of Big Pool that today they were ordered to Justice C. E. Hoffa of Hagerstown to ascertain if the participants in the grave-yard frolics could not be arrested and put in jail.

Several prominent citizens arranged the ghastly frolic. All the belles and beaux of the village were present. Big Pool is "dry" and the flowing soul held only ginger ale and pop, but the party managed to exhilirate itself nevertheless.

The orchestra platform was erected upon mounds under which reposed the bones of the community's departed souls. Lanterns hung from the bars of the tall, monuments, setting a gleam on the tall, green stones. The dance started at 9 o'clock when part of Big Pool had gone to bed. The leaders of the orchestra perched themselves on the highest tombs to be found and until 1 o'clock, when the party broke up, aroused the folks with his screeching violin and "calls."

The ice cream festival was announced that several residents were missed from their beds. Dressing gently, they crept to points of vantage behind tombstones in the rear of the cemetery and watched the proceedings to the end. Those folks, it developed today, figured in the list of names which was exhibited before Judge Hoffa.

TORY ATTACK ON W. R. HEARST

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The following personal, a gay squib in itself, was sent Montreal last night:

New York, Sept. 7, 1911.—Louis Tellier, 6 Rue St. Pierre, Paris, reports arrival of Massachusetts meeting. Most jovial. Quebec.

A message has been received at this office as follows:

"Montreal, Que., Sept. 7, 1911.

"To W. R. Hearst,

"The American, New York.

"A mass meeting will be held on the Champ de Mars of Montreal on Saturday next, when you will be burned in effigy. Your attitude, your methods, and your unscrupulous journalism, together with your subservience and servility to the British Government, have rendered you and your methods absolutely regardless of decency.

"LOUIS PELLETIER,
"RUFUS H. POPE."

That such a message could have been sent to a gentleman was hooted at as highly improbable, but inquiries to-day, when asked about the possibility of a mass meeting, were met by those in charge of the Champ de Mars with the statement that no one was expected to attend.

Mr. Hearst is in Europe, where he has been since early in July, and therefore cannot answer such accusations.

Mr. Hearst's attitude on Canadian methods and attitude are unique and unusual, and has been a subject of discussion.

Will Settle Right Down.

Geraghty has an electric runabout at his disposal, and Mrs. Geraghty, in the afternoon took possession of the gasy machine and handsome harness which was given to her by her father before the elopement.

"I know I've to hoof, but I've tried to be a good fellow and I'm going to settle on trying," Geraghty said. "I'm not going to do any more talking, but settle down and work and try to make a good home for my wife. She feels as I do about it. There was not any other way out for us. I loved her and she loved me, and when her family was about to force her to choose one had to take things into our own hands."

NEWPORT SNUB FOR GERAGHTYS

NEWPORT, Sept. 8.—Society has unofficially, but the first engagement in the battle between itself and the "fast" set ladies.

No cards of Reggie's social leaders have been left for Mrs. Geraghty at the Newport Beach Hotel. Some of Mrs. Geraghty's former friends have called on her.

Mrs. Geraghty has announced plans on Bellevue avenue yesterday afternoon at the fashionable time, but no cards were left, the disagreeable, according to the notion of society, task of either sending or accepting.

Today, as a sweeping snub, young Mrs. Geraghty's friends were not at home at the Casino as was anticipated. Many ladies intended that their presence should be demonstrated, but her reception, consisting from those who were her friends in a social sense, was confined to Mrs. Jack Geraghty, chauffeur and automobile demonstrator for the second affinity regent for action.

Happy Though Snubbed.

Apparently, Mrs. Geraghty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Tuck French, and all her friends, including Lieutenant Geraghty, are happy. To-day, when asked about the possibility of a reconciliation, every one of them refused to discuss the Geraghtys in any way.

Mrs. Geraghty's mother, who is backing up by this attitude on the part of her parents, has not been seen since it is said, she has apparently no longer an any young bride. Your self-satisfied face the delights and perks of housekeeping.

All day yesterday and today she and her husband were busy settling their cozy little flat, Elwood street, just off Kay street "flock," with coat on and sleeves rolling up. Re-opening and unpacking crates of furniture, pictures and bric-a-brac filled the former of each, hauled from floor to floor and room to room, to find the best place for each piece. The two were as unconcerned and apparently contented and happy as the married of other long years who have settled housekeeping to as simple a manner as possible.

They are plentifully supplied with funds, part of which is said to have come from other members of the French family, as Geraghty has resigned from the army to settle down to be "a man."

Mrs. Geraghty's father, who was quoted as saying that "we are getting all that is coming to us." While not elaborate, the new furniture is in good taste and in ample quantity to furnish their cottage in comfort to the end.

LAUDS WORK OF THE AMERICAN

John T. Cummings of Ward 21, Democratic candidate for the Democratic nomination of the Eighth congressional district, is giving considerable attention to the West End section and the building of new subways in his campaign for the office, and the attitude of the AMERICAN since starting.

"It would not be fair to mention the many great past played by the Boston AMERICAN in bringing about conditions so much to be desired in the matter of rapid transit. Elevated for a period of forty-two years, the Boston AMERICAN has to its credit many public services, all none are more important to the people than its latest.

"The character of the article which appeared last night opposing the extension of the Board of Trade Building, and the work of Commissioners, and the suggested new location of the Tremont street subway, which was only less violent and dangerous to the people, were far in advance of anything which originally served motion by presenting a public view of the situation to the stockholders of the West End, and thus giving me its support to its Board. Elevated for a period of forty-two years, the Boston AMERICAN has to its credit many public services, all none are more important to the people than its latest.

Now For New Goods

The Fall season has turned, no matter how long the weather may hold warm. There's a generous showing right now, and each day from this on will bring something new and interesting. We should like you to see them while the freshness is still on them. We don't want you to feel as though you have to buy if you look at them, but we want you by all means to come in and look the things over.

We wish you would make this "looking business" more a matter of mutual interest than a stiff, formal affair. Drop in any time the same as you would drop in for a chat with a friend—and talk the matter over. You'll have the satisfaction of knowing what we've got anyway, and when you do get ready to buy you'll certainly buy with a clearer knowledge of what's what.

Here's the Advance Guard of Men's Fall Suits at $10

And a right cheery looking lot of fabrics you'll find it. We naturally feel inclined to speak pretty well of them—but it's what you have to say after you have seen them that will count. So we think it's much better to wait until you come in—then we'll do some talking.

Some are in cassimeres, some in worsteds, others are in mixed patterns. Many of the new season's most popular shadings are represented, in blues, grays and browns. The styles still hold to the single breasted models as heretofore.

Others $7.50, $12, $15, $18, $22, $25

It would be an easy matter for us to camphorize all of our unsold balances of Suits each season and offer them again the following year at full prices without losing a penny. Most stores make a practice of this.

BUT WE DO NOT. We find it pays to dispose of everything IN SEASON even though we lose money by such a policy. Those who buy at this sale do so at a great saving to themselves and invariably become regular patrons. Those who buy here at the beginning of a new season do so with the absolute knowledge that they are getting the newest of the new—not left-overs.

Many Suits in this collection are medium in weight, suitable for early fall wear. Every remaining Suit in our store is embraced in this sale at $12, regardless of its former price. They were formerly up to $40.

LAST-CALL Clean-Up

Through the courtesy of the owners of this property, 14-16 Summer St., we are permitted to remain here from week to week, subject at any time to four or five days' notice to vacate.

THIS extension of time is not only very short but uncertain as well. It may mean only a few days, on the other hand it's just possible that it means nearly three weeks. The longer the better for both ourselves and you. Because our new store will not be ready before Oct. 1st and we face the prospect of a couple of weeks without a home. For you, it's the best thing that could happen, because we've again slashed everything—this time down to three ridiculous prices:

$6 $9 $12

At these prices you choose from every two and three piece suit, of light and medium weight, also some medium weight overcoats in fancys and black oxford both plain and silk faced, some heavy enough for late Fall wear. Values range $15.00 to $40.00

This is also a great time to buy Winter and Fur-lined Overcoats—they're selling now at about 33 1-3 cents on the dollar. Also Walking, Prince Albert, Dress and Tuxedo Suits.

Smokers, as a rule, do not stick to one brand of cigars very long. This may be due to the tendency of many brands to fall off in quality after a time—or because some new brand, often very good at the price, is constantly appearing on the market.

It's interesting to note that in spite of the above the

has sold for over thirty years, selling better each year than the year before.

This proves decisively that the WAITT & BOND BLACKSTONE not only maintains a steady quality standard, but that this standard is high enough to protect it from "bargain" brands that come and go in shoals.

The WAITT & BOND BLACKSTONE is a Havana filled, Sumatra wrapped, cigar. If you want to try one, any cigar dealer has them.

Aeroplane Fronts

ALWAYS STAY UP

The aeroplane unbreakable front purchased by us from Mr. Edwards, the inventor, will revolutionize the tailoring business. We will not mention the price paid for this invention (as that would be almost unbelievable), but Mr. Edwards will never have to worry about money again the rest of his life. For one year we will not sell any aeroplane fronts to other tailors, as we wish our customers to get the first benefit. Every coat turned out in our 109 stores will absolutely have this "GUARANTEED UNBREAKABLE FRONT" in it. This front is composed of 400 one-inch-square compartments, every one being joined separately. There is not one chance in a hundred of even one of these compartments breaking down, but for argument's sake we will say a few may even then the balance are fully capable of holding the front intact.

From This Date EVERY COAT Turned Out by the Six Little Tailors Will Have an "Aeroplane Front"

The only Coat known to date which can be ... anteed to never break down. In other words, ... guarantee to refund your money ... the first one's front breaks down

In all our experience this fall's woolens are the handsomest we have ever shown.

Lazy Women

Most of the Favorite Feminine Ills Can Be Traced to Femininity's Besetting Sin

By DOROTHY DIX

"ONE of the most curious things about women is the way they will do anything to get rid of work. They will walk miles to escape walking a block, and they will endure pain and suffering and complexion wrecking makers to be massaged instead of taking exercise.

"Laziness is the laziness of women and a fashionable disease. There is not a physician in the whole country doing a good practice who doesn't really live on the laziness of women.

"Women with their many leisure hours and lifeless lives are the chief patrons of the quacks and specialists.

"It is the women who have nothing to do who are always ailing.

"Of course, in some cases this may be unavoidable. Sometimes it is the husband who is lazy and shiftless and who will not provide enough to keep the family in comfort, and then the wife has to work to support him and the children. But in the majority of cases it is the woman herself who is to blame.

"She does not want to work, and she will not work, and she has the nerve to sit down and whine because she is not provided for in luxurious idleness.

"The deadly maxim of the lazy woman is, 'Anything for a quiet life,' and her motto is, 'Let George do it.'

Women's Besetting Sin

"In my opinion the besetting sin of women is laziness. They will do anything to avoid the work that is before them. Because they dread the worry and work of seeing about the things that are incompetent servants will not do, they will neglect all the sweet privacy of a home. Yet there is no office, social or political, and nowhere in business, profession and art where golf or motor cars or the desire to take the air will be enough to keep women from the heights and depths of the trade in the praises of the world. Nothing arouses such a woman to the effort she is capable of making to have done with her job.

Aftermath

"Of course, she doesn't get the praises of the world, but she gets the praises of her family, which are sweeter to her than the plaudits of the world. She gets the satisfaction of having done her best, and she gets the reward of peace and quietness and rest.

"Another prolific cause of unhappiness among women who have nothing to do is undermined the doctor prescribing pills.

"The fatal topic, 'Is that they have too much time to think of it impossible. That is the greatest single cause of unhappiness among women who have nothing to do.

"Let a woman who has nothing to do get a headache or a backache, and she will think of it all day long. She will nurse it and pet it and pamper it and talk about it to her friends, and she will go to the doctor and tell him about it.

YOU ARE A KIND MILLER, SIR. YOU KID US OF THAT VILLAIN DESMOND AND ROSAMOND AND I WILL BE SO HAPPY ONCE MORE!
THEY THINK OLD DESMOND DEALER CLAUDE WILL GET A SURPRISE AND I'LL HAVE ROSAMOND NEXT MARAD

OUCH! BUT THAT SACK OF FLOUR SAVED US FROM THE SPEAR 'TIS DESMOND'S WORK.
CURSES! DESMOND'S MUST DIE
DESMOND'S MUST DIE

Claude and Rosamond thank the kindly miller who saved them (as they think) from the machinations of Desperate Desmond, the arch-villain of the age. Like all lovers, they plan a long lifetime of happiness, not realizing that most of our unhappiness is caused by our own acts.

But Desmond has not been killed—far from it; he was never more alive than he is now, and when he spots the lovers by the mill he climbs up behind the building and directs his black allies to fasten a spear to one of the sails. This, he figures, will effectually spike Claude.

Claude and Rosamond, happy in their mutual love, are artlessly imparting their secret to the miller, who has undoubtedly guessed it long before. Funny about romance couples—for they think anybody ever knows they even like each other, except the outsiders must pretend to be surprised.

Ha! The sympathetic miller who aided Claude and Rosamond is not all that he seems to be. Note a disguised Bedouin returning with a sack of flour which he discovered did not comply with the pure food laws. Desmond's villainous throps and hunk often go hand in hand.

And that hunk sack of flour has saved the lives of the lovers, for the spear strikes it fair and square, just as the point was about to pierce Claude. Ironically Claude deduces that Desmond is in the vicinity and intends to wreak his vengeance on the harmless lovers. A sensible deduction, too.

When discovered, Desmond and his two Wild Men jump upon the whirling sails of the windmill and, shriveled behind them, open fire on the party below. It is hard for Claude to hit such a moving target and the result of the battle cannot be predicted. See to-morrow's paper, and now observe how—

Heart-to-Heart Talks with the Men

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

TO ANXIOUS ONE—A perfect man is one who can make a woman feel when he addresses her that she belongs to the royal family and that he is an authority on royal birthmarks. All other men fall short in comparison, though they may be preachers or sing tenor in a choir. Try more deference in your tones, and bow lower.

THE GROOM—It is customary for the bride to select the wedding music, and while this department agrees with you that no song could be sweeter than "We Walked Right In, and Turned Around and Walked Right Out Again," it feels a hesitancy in urging it. Perhaps it would be in better taste for you to let your bride select the music, and demand your turn at the courthouse when you get your divorce. On such an occasion "You Promised Me" would be sweetly significant sung softly during the trial, and "Nothing but Leaves" would make a touching recessional.

HOME TIES writes that he hasn't seen his brother in ten years, and seeks the assistance of this department in finding him. This department cannot understand why a man should seek lost kin. If Home Ties has a brother he would like to lose, this department will take pleasure in looking into his case. Home Ties is referred to Lysander John Appleton, Kin Commissioner General.

DEBUTANTE ED—A pair of suspenders for every pair of trousers is not too much for one upon whom society makes such strenuous demands. Your complaint that if a fellow gets his suit and ties to match, the sox fade and they don't match long, touched our heart.

SERIOUS MINDED—No, mirrors are not put in a saloon as a reform measure, and it is your innocence that prompts the question. The bleary-eyed, watery-headed reflection drinking man sees in a saloon mirror isn't a slight inviting him to come again, but he doesn't know it.

KNOWING ONE — This department does not doubt that you know more than the doctor, but when a lawyer tells you to try change of climate, act at once.

ANXIOUS TO PLEASE — When the princely sum you give your wife every week meets her distress because it is small, try wrapping the money in tissue paper, with a pale blue ribbon bow on the outside and your calling card attached. The daintiness may appeal to her.

TIRED HEART—Your plaintive little cry that you lack of appreciation from your wife touched this department's heart, and we longed to gather you in our arms and wipe your tears away. Perhaps in the rush and bustle of spending money and going for drives and trying new cold creams, she sometimes neglected you, but be patient and she will come back with a smile on her lips. We would advise you to lift yourself above your depression. Look around you and find joy in your dream of a desk, in your sweet office chair, and in the darling people with whom you transact business every day.

ACHING ARMS—The Fall styles for women forecast no relief for husbands. If you are tired of hoofing up your wife's dresses send down South and get a hook worm.

How to Care for the Teeth

By LOUISE SCUDDAY

From an article in the September number of Good Housekeeping.

THE tendency of all humanitarian endeavor today is toward prevention of evil. In medicine we no longer make efforts to reform the hardened criminal; we have turned our attention to the child, to save him from the ways of crime. In medicine we no longer cure drug and booze the sick; we teach the well how to keep from getting sick. The basic idea of modern sanitation also is prevention rather than cure. Modern dentistry is no exception to this rule; instead of merely filling holes in decayed teeth or removing them when beyond repair, the higher endeavors of dentistry look to the prevention of decay. Its effort is to teach such care of the mouth as to prevent all disablement and loss of teeth. As long as people are left in ignorance of the fact that proper care will prevent the suffering due to bad teeth, the present conditions of discomfort and disease will continue.

There is a popular and fallacious belief that indigestion and medicines spoil the teeth. Don't believe a word of it! It is merely a plausible, sounding excuse for the very evident results of neglect. If you have indigestion or have to take medicines for other ailments, then you must simply give that much more care to your teeth. The care that is sufficient for one set of teeth is wholly inadequate for another. But given the care that your particular set of teeth demand you undoubtedly can preserve them to be a comfort and solace to you in your old age.

It is simply possible to-day to prevent decay entirely from ever having a cavity in their teeth, and ourselves from having our own teeth to extract during life.

Prevention of decay is the watchword being just the highfalutin way of saying prevention—and having one's teeth thoroughly cleaned, and then taking such daily care of them as is outlined further on in this article. The ordinary dentist is as a rule too busy patching up old teeth or putting in new ones to give the time and attention necessary to properly polish ing those that need nothing more than polishing. The specialist also uses finer instruments than does the layman—files, drill and forceps, which enables him to remove tartar that may form far up on the tooth beneath the gum and where a coarser, blunter instrument would not reach, or if it did reach would irritate the gum and cause it to form more deposits of tartar under the gums that irritates them and makes them bleed whenever the teeth are brushed, or when biting something hard like an apple. In very bad cases the gums will recede at the slightest touch, showing that they are in a high state of inflammation, and will even suppurate.

To the monthly attention of the prophylaxis specialist we must add our own efforts to keep the teeth and mouth clean, using the former night and morning, and the latter at least once daily, preferably on retiring, so as to leave no food between the teeth to ferment during the night. With a toothbrush it is necessary to use some good paste or powder, and by a good paste or powder is meant one that has not one particle of grittiness or roughness in it. Sand is not in a paste to powder, so that if you put a little of it into the mouth and rub it you can rub it around and feel absolutely no grit.

When cleaning the dental thread between the teeth (and, by the way, the newest variety of floss is preferable to the sort enough to pass it loosely back and forth, dislodging any particles of food), it must be pulled firmly against each tooth in turn.

Mischief Wrought by Bad Teeth

The question of the relation of the teeth to the rest of the body is one that is constantly occupying more and more of the attention of the best men in medicine as well as in dentistry. There can be no doubt in the mind of any thinking person that to have a mouth full of teeth that are merely hotels where are harbored guests, both transient and permanent, of the germ family is to begin disease of the body sooner or later. The transient guests work their way onward to the throat, the lungs, the stomach, wherever their fancy leads them; they go into the lymph glands also, and thence find a highroad into any part of the body that they choose to explore. The permanent guests, not being fond of travel, stay where they are and make things lively and attractive for their location of the restless feet and the adventurous spirit, their way of doing this being to cause as much trouble and devastation in the teeth as they possibly can.

A very good home-made germ killer can be made by dissolving in water as much boric acid as the water will hold, that is, keep putting in the boric acid until no more will dissolve and you get a sediment in the bottom of the glass.

A simple-hearted and truly devout soul unconquerable desire to tell everybody he preacher, who had tasted but few of the drinks of the world, took dinner with a high-toned family, where a glass of milk punch was quietly set down by each plate. Married Young

AN amusing incident happened some time ago in one of the Paris courts of justice. A rich, haughty woman was called as a witness, when the magistrate inquired her age.

"Twenty-five last August," promptly replied the lady.

The next witness was a young man, who at once acknowledged that he was twenty-seven years of age.

"Are you related to the last witness?" queried the magistrate.

"Yes; I'm her son," he replied.

"After which the magistrate, 'your mother must have married very young.'"

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

STOCKS LOWER IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK Sept. 8.—Continuation of the selling movement to-day caused the stock market to open weak, with prices off and with Canadian Pacific exceptionally depressed with a decline of 1¾. Union Pacific was off ¾ and Southern Pacific lost ½. Sales ranged up fourth 1 point in the first few sales. Great Northern was under fire and stumped with the others.

Among the initial declines were Steel, Smelting, Amalgamated Copper, U. S. Rubber, Reading, Southern Railway was up ¼ and Pennsylvania was up ⅛. After fifteen minutes' trading a better tone prevailed and some of the losses regained a point or part of their losses.

Reports of a possible dividend reduction in U. S. furnished the cause for reductions in that issue.

The early market opened easy and unchanged. Americans in London were quiet. Canadian Pacific in London was weak on heavy selling, due to rumors that the crop outlook in the Dominion was very poor on account of the weather.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

Henry J. Adams, his wife, sister and two children, respectively, two and four years old, of Fostoria, Ohio, completed their sensational trip of 1,700 miles around Lake Michigan yesterday, this being the first time this stretch of lake had ever been encircled by automobile. The trip was undertaken that Mr. Adams might gather data sufficient to bound Lake Michigan by automobile.

He and his family went to the Ford factory at Detroit, Mich., where they got their new 1912 car. That was about two weeks ago. From Lansing they went to Grand Rapids which was an easy jump. From thence they went through Chicago where the wilds of Michigan might be said to begin. Here the roads were unpretentious, rough and sandy that the ordinary tourist would have refused to make the journey in despair.

Despite these great obstacles, the trip was continued through Whitewater, Peshtigo and eventually Marinette City which is at the northern extremity of the lower peninsula. Here the adventurers met with a slide, were crossed by ferry to St. Ignace, from which point the route ran to Sault Ste. Marie and the Lake Superior to Grand Marais, where Mr. Adams says an automobile has never before been seen. From Grand Marais the route led through Munising, Marquette, Rapid River and Escanaba, Menominee, Lond du Lac, Milwaukee, Chicago, South Bend and finally into home to Fostoria, happier, healthier, and better dressed Ohioans for the record trip.

Simeon H. Baker, who for years has been identified with the progress of the industry, will hereafter be more prominently identified with the commercial motor car industry. Mr. Baker enters his connection with the Massachusetts Motor Company and on Monday next will become identified with the Decatur Motor Car Co., being Manager Martin's right-hand man.

Mr. Baker is recognized as one of the pioneers of the automobile industry in Boston, having been connected with it for the last eight or ten years. In going to the Decatur Company, Mr. Baker comes with him years of experience that should prove of great benefit and value to the company, as he is well-known throughout New England.

The Decatur motor truck is by no means a stranger in Boston, it having good a stanch in this city for over a year, and many of its trucks being used by Boston houses.

Richard M. Charlton, automobile editor of the Savannah News, is spending a few days in the North. Mr. Charlton made himself popular with the northern newspaper men during the holding of the Savannah races, for which he was an indefatigable worker.

Mr. Charlton is much interested in the races in Savannah in November, and foresees that the coming events will be the greatest held on this continent. All Savannah is putting its right foot forward to have everything right and in safe-shape by the time of the holding of the contest. He says that the city fell flat there was a slight probability that the Glidden tour would either finish or pass through the city of Savannah.

ARMY SENT AGAINST MANUEL'S FORCES

LISBON, Sept. 8.—Three regiments and fourteen batteries of artillery were ordered to the northern frontier where the royalists are massing forces for an attempt to upset the government and restore King Manuel. Arms are now being distributed by Manuel's agents in Galician towns.

We Won't Pay for Art We Won't Pay for Music But We Will Pay to See a Fight

That's What We Call Civilization

Copyright, 1911, by American-Journal-Examiner

Suppose you went to the Congo and you found a large hut built to hold thousands of savages.

Suppose you found the hut was to be torn down, because the effort to make it pay with exhibitions of art treasures or fine musical performances had utterly failed.

Suppose you learned that that building, the finest in the Congo, was absolutely unprofitable, and then suppose that all of a sudden you heard that some intelligent savages had organized a fight in the big hut and the thing paid most beautifully.

You would say, "Well, they are only savages. It is natural that they should pay well to see two of their brothers fighting, and refuse to pay for anything more intellectual."

New York City is not in the Congo, but it is like the Congo.

They have a big hut in New York called Madison Square Garden. They tried music in it, fine industrial and artistic exhibitions, all sorts of intellectual, so-called "civilized attractions"—but they didn't pay.

So it was decreed that Madison Square Garden should be torn down and make room for something that would pay.

Then along came a nice, convenient law permitting in the usual euphemistic phraseology public exhibitions of prize fighting.

And a big prize fight, in the language of its admirers, was "pulled off" in Madison Square Garden.

A gentleman known as "Matt Wells, English lightweight champion," fought another gentleman known as "Knockout Brown, the idol of Gotham's boxing enthusiasts."

These two men, undersized, brutal fighting machines, were put into a ring with gloves on their hands and set to fighting each other.

There was no other entertainment offered, nothing to attract the crowd EXCEPT THE OPPORTUNITY TO SEE ONE MAN STRIKE ANOTHER IN THE FACE AND ULTIMATELY BATTER HIM INTO DEFEAT.

Was this exhibition in the big Madison Square hut unprofitable, like the exhibitions of art and the musical performances? Not a bit of it.

It poured rain all through the day and all through the night, yet thousands stood in the rain for a chance to pay one dollar and get one of the worst seats. And other thousands were unable, although willing to pay ten dollars each for good seats.

The great building was packed. And outside thousands waiting for details of the fight were kept moving in circles by the police while the rain poured down.

Forty thousand dollars in cash was paid for seats to see that fight.

One-tenth of that amount, if it could be had, would keep Madison Square Garden open and extremely profitable. Ten fights a year would make the Garden pay.

American civilization pays forty thousand dollars to see a fight. But it won't pay four thousand or two thousand or one thousand to any entertainments that are usually called civilized.

Do you believe that a few laws, or some rearrangement of supply and demand, or some redistribution of property would make this earth a paradise of brotherhood and happiness? Change your belief.

Before you can have anything approaching civilization on this planet, you must breed a race of men that will not pay more to see one man strike his brother in the face than for any other kind of an entertainment.

The chief difference between the populations of the Congo and of New York City is in the clothes and the skin of the men that inhabit those two neighborhoods.

Human Beings Are Certainly Hideous, as a Rule

Copyright, 1911, by the American-Journal-Examiner.

Have you ever thought what uninteresting creatures human beings are—generally. As they get older they get uglier. Almost every child is beautiful, in expression at least.

And young people are usually pleasant to look at. But we change. Among men, as among monkeys, with very few exceptions, ever-increasing hideousness comes with age.

A baby man or a baby gorilla is a pretty, pleasing sight. The man, like the gorilla, nearly always looks hideous as he gets old. His jaw grows bigger, his forehead seems to get smaller, his whole face increases in size. His mouth shows meanness, selfishness and weakness or brutality. In fact, for the average human being there is only too much apparent truth in the saying of the German materialist that the human face is merely the opening of the alimentary canal, and that its expression is based on the dictates of the stomach and other internal apparatus.

To this usual deterioration with age, however, there are exceptions. And the exceptions are to be found always AMONG HUMAN BEINGS THAT THINK EARNESTLY.

Huxley was commonplace and ugly as a young man and beautiful as an old man—his face in old age was lighted with the power of thought and the love of truth. That is true of others among men that have been deep and earnest thinkers; for instance, the late Pope Leo, whose face was transparent in its beauty; Gladstone, a picture of dignity in spite of his hard battles; Bismarck, Von Moltke and many others.

Some of these men grew stern and severe because of life's battles, but it did not make them ugly—for their minds were always working and the light never left their faces.

Very hideous is the average, dull-minded human being who drops ambition behind him at eighteen or twenty, stops thinking before twenty-five, and after that lives on, nothing but an eating and drinking machine on two legs.

There are in this world too many big paunches, too many small foreheads.

The Story of a City

A Noted Prelate, Now in New England, Gives a Thrilling, Educating, Inspiring Interview. It Will Be in Next Sunday's American.

The Boston Sunday AMERICAN of next Sunday will contain, as one of its most interesting features, an interview with a distinguished prelate of the Roman Catholic Church which it will pay every citizen of New England to read.

It is the story of a city grown great, through the courage, the enterprise and the municipal loyalty and pride of its own inhabitants.

At great expense of time, to say nothing of money, which to them is almost as valuable as time, an important delegation of Boston merchants recently made a tour of Europe in search of civic suggestions and of new ideas for the development of Boston.

It would be well if those public-spirited and enterprising men would next make a pilgrimage to the city of their own land, about which the eminent churchman who gives this interview speaks through the AMERICAN next Sunday.

It is a graphic and enthusiastic narrative of a single community—within our own American borders—made great by the faith and confidence of its own inhabitants.

Faith in one's own city, confidence in its future, pride in its development along solid and healthful lines, ability to look "beyond the tip of one's nose" and anticipate the future, as far as human eyes may pierce the veil; these and many more are the reflective lessons which next Sunday's interview should teach to all its readers who are proud of Boston and proud of New England. In the Boston Sunday AMERICAN of next Sunday.

Amateur Night

By MILES OVERHOLT

THOSE who have attended a theatre on amateur night will agree with us that a camel that has successfully passed through the eye of a needle is no braver than the amateur performer who faces an audience that is loaded for bear with gibes, jokes and other destructive material. In the following, the first and third lines are from the amateur, the others from the audience:

"Mary had a little lamb"—
"Oh, chestnuts! Say, skiddoo!"
"Twinkle, twinkle, little star"—
"Now dat'll be all for you!"
"Curfew shall not ring to-night"—
"Forgit it! Rotten! Stale!"
"'Twas on a dark and stormy night"—
"Aw, take 'em off ter jail!"
"Shoot, if you must, this old gray head"—
"Aw, beat it! Twenty-three!"
"Where is my wandering boy to-night"—
"Don't ask us. Hully gee!"
"Who calls my name?' the madman spoke"—
"Aw, run aroun' de block!"
"The moon shone on the night was calm"—
"Say, go jump off de dock!"
"Woodman, woodman, spare that tree"—
"Say, fellers, look who's here!"
"Each day'll be Sunday by and by"—
"Don't buy de buy—buy beer!"
"The birds were singing sweetly"—
"Yer must be off yer nut!"
"The drummer boy knelt down in prayer"—
"Go chase yourself, yer nutt!"
"It was the good ship Hesperus"—
"Oh, Casey; take a look!"
"Make way for liberty,' he cried"—
But the hero got the hook.

Little Bobbie

He Writes About A Great Thirst

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

THAT club member friend of yours was sure tied to the chair last nite, sed Pa, wasent she?

She did stay quite a long time, sed Ma, but I enjoyed every minit of her stay. I dont care how long a brite woman calls on me. Wen you are talking to a brite woman you dont have to listen to yure husband telling how Bobo Markard has come to the front as a pitcher.

I didn't mean any harm, wife, sed Pa. I jest thought that she stayed kind of long.

She wasent pritty, that's the only trubbel, Ma sed. If she had been peechy & creamy & dreemy you wuldent have cared if she had visited here till the end of the National Leeg season. No wonder you dont beleeve in long calls, sed Ma. You never stay here nayver ten minnits after you have yure dinner without beginning for to fidget & think of a bil yard parlor, Ma sed.

Of course I know, sed Ma, that it isent very polite for a guest to stay very long. I was jest reeding yesterday how Miss Wilcox sed that a lady shud not tire out her hostess by staying too long. She sed that the charm of a graceful exit is had for me. But she is certainly right if she says that visitors shuldent stay too long. By the way, sed Pa, I have a gentleman frend cumming up to the home tonite. He jest got in here from the Silver Belt district of Arizona, and he was telling me this afternoon that he has baked on so many deserts & been lost in so many mountains that he is simply dying for the polite society to wich he used to be used to.

At 8 o'clock Pa's frend calm. He was very tall & thin, & he was burned all nayver brown, like one of them life guards that gits there boats tipped nayver wen they go to rescue a man. His name was Hart Bacon, and wen he was taking off his coat & collar rite after he calm in, so he cud be cool, he told Ma that he had been a prospector for copper for nigh on thirty yeers. You have no idee, lady, he told Ma, the hardships wich we grin men of the mountains have to bir. Where do I bop—in this chare?

Anyware, Mister Bacon, sed Ma, & Ma winked at me. Pa was kind of red in the face.

Did you ever prospect for copper in the Western mountains? Mister Bart Bacon asked Ma. No, sed Ma, but I dare say my littel son Bobbie may have. Bobbie, sed Ma, did you ever seech away from skool and go out to prospect for copper?

Well, sed Mister Bacon, you cud nevver know, if you have nevver been out there, the tortures of thirst. I dount suppous that even yure good husband here has ever known the real tortures of thirst. I dount think so, eether, sed Ma, looking lovingly at Pa. Thirst nevver had a chanst to torture my husband, did it, deer?

Tell us mour about yure Western experiences, sed Pa, he was still red in the face.

It was awful, sed Mister Bart Bacon. Red men, poisonous inseeks and creeping things, cactus & above all the pitiless sun of that dredful country into wich so many go & so few return.

Pa's frend stayed four hours & made all of us yawn a we dident think he was ever going home. Wait till Ma gits after Pa the next time he talks about her lady frends staying too long.
